THE OTHER SIDE TOLD

Turkish Account of the Armenian Outrages.

SOCIALISTS IN THE REICHSTAG

Bill introduced to Prosecute Them for Refusing to Cheer the Kaiser--New Prussian Minister.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Turkish legation has received the following official communication: "Armenian agitators who made their appearance in the steep mountains of Talouri, situated between Sassoum, in the southwest of Moush, (Vilayet of Bitlis), and the district Calb, of Mutessarial, of Guendji, combined their forces at the instigation of a certain Hampartzoum, who, under the assumed name of Mourat, was already giving trouble in these regions. This Hampartzoum after having eight years studied medicine in a civil school, and participated in the disorders of Coup Capou, fled to Athens and thence to Genoa. He after went disguised and again under an assumed name by way of Alexandria from Darkbro to the neighborhood of Bitlis, and he began seditious agitation, together with five other individuals. He has given positive assurances to the credulous people that he was a foreign agent backed by all the European powers in his plans to upset the Turkish authorities. He succeeded thus in gaining to his criminal ends Armenians of the villages of Siner, Simal, Gulli, Guzat, Ahi, Hedenk, Sinank, Chekind, Elford, Moussone, Etek, Akdjerk: as well as those of the small borough of Talouri, comprising four districts. Now these insurgents under command of Hampartzoum abandoning toward the latter part of July last, their respective villages, and having placed in inaccessible spots their wives, children and belongings, and secured the co-operation of other Armenian insurgents that came from the valley of Moush and from Casar, of Calb and Selvan, assembled together, numbering more than 3,000, at a place called Endouk-Dagh. Five or six hundred decided to fall upon Moush. They began by attacking the tribe of Delikans, in Mount Corlink, in the south of Moush, killed a few of them and robbed them of their belongings. All the Musselmans that fell into their hands were insulted in their religion and murdered in a most horrible fashion. Regular troops in the neighborhood of Moush were also attacked by these insurgents, who, however, did not dare to attack Moush itself, owing to the strong military forces of the town. The rebels, together with other rebels, assembled at Endouk-Dagh, organized and then separated and assaulted furiously the tribes close at hand, committing horrible crimes and depredations. They burned alive a nephew of Eumer Agha, and assaulted and murdered Musselman women of three houses in the village of Gaulli Guzet. They also tortured many Musselmans, forcing them to kiss the cross, putting their eyes out, cutting their ears off and submitting them to the most horrible indignities. After having brought consternation and death among Musselman and Christian alike, they refused to surrender, and continued their criminal proceedings. The regular troops were sent to the spot to put down their rebellion. Chief Hampartzoum fled to a high mountain with 11 associates. He was captured alive, but not without killing two soldiers and wounding six. By the end of August all the insurgent band were dispersed. Women, children and invalids were treated with due consideration, and according to the dictates of Islamism and humanity. The insurgents who were captured will be punished by law."

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Daily News today publishes a three-column letter from Constantinople. The writer says from all the evidence he has been able to gather in regard to the number killed and the villages destroyed the Armenian outrages cannot be compared with those of Bulgaria. The Kurds believe the government approves of the outrages, and unless they are dealt with as a Canadian or American would deal with the red Indians, under similar circumstances, they are incapable of understanding to the contrary. If Great Britain and Russia jointly insist on reforms there will be a chance of success, because in case of need they can compel attention.

The German Reichstag.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—The reichstag was crowded today in expectation of seeing exciting scenes over the motion of Chancellor Hohenlohe to prosecute the socialists who refused to respond to the president's call for cheers for the kaiser last Thursday. President von Levetzow opened the sitting and read the petition of the public prosecutor for the prosecution of the offending deputies. The petition was referred. Chancellor Hohenlohe then rose and read the budget statement. After intimating that he would not follow in all things in the way of his predecessors, he dwelt upon the necessity for finance reform and a rearrangement of the relations between the empire and individual states, and expanded the ideas set forth by the emperor in his speech. He concluded by calling attention to the necessity of strengthening the common laws against movements designed to undermine the authority of the state.

The Situation Becoming Critical.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Globe this afternoon prints a letter from a British resident of China, who occupies a position which brings him in touch with the mandarins and masses. He says: "A tragedy may occur any day, and when the Japanese come in sight of the capital I feel certain every foreigner will be massacred. The foreign ministers will incur a perfectly insane risk if they remain there after ice has closed the port of Tien-Tsin. The greatest danger is in the fact that nearly all the soldiers are members of a secret society, which is ready to break out at the first chance."

Raised Money for the Road.

JALAPA, Mexico, Dec. 11.—Delfin Sanchez, a railroad magnate of Mexico, has returned from Paris and London, where he says he has succeeded in securing the required amount of capital for the building of the extension of the Inter-Oceanic railroad from Chitla to Acapulco, on the Pacific coast. Concession from this extension was obtained from the government by Sanchez some time ago. The road will cross the Sierra mountains, and some great engineering feats must be accomplished.

The Newfoundland Crisis.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Concerning the suspension of the mercantile firm of Prowse, Hall & Morris and its connection with the financial crisis in Newfoundland, Mr. Morris, junior member of the firm, said today: "The suspension was ordered owing to the death of Fartner Hall, and the consequent necessity of ascertaining the position of the firm. I am unable to say to what extent our failure is due to the Newfoundland crisis."

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature to do its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address: F. J.
